

USociable Specs and Dimensions

Profile Specifications

This is to help you prepare images and other objects so they format correctly

Editing your Profile

You are given a default profile when you join. It is plain white and gray and not very exciting. However, it is pretty easy to dress it up using CSS code or the built in USociable editor. You will find it easier to do your design work on your profile and pages if you take some time to prepare your backgrounds and graphics before you go in to add them. You can upload your images to USociable using our new multi-image uploader. Once they have been uploaded you can sort, rename, and arrange into albums.

Profile and Page Sizes

Profiles and pages have a maximum width of 1024 px. This is the main table that contains all the information. You will be able to customize your background image which will show behind your content and beyond the edges of the table on the left and right.

Portraits are most often displayed at this aspect ratio. You can download a template from the tools page.

Links

Handy links to your pages, e-mail, etc.

Contact Table

These links let users easily contact you or add you to friends. You can customize this box using the template in tools and the CSS code in library.

URL and Embed
Use these links to send URL to someone via e-mail or the embed code to embed your page in another site.

Main Navigation Bar

This is the main USociable Navigation. It becomes transparent on your profile and pages, but you can effect the color of the text using CSS.

Page Links

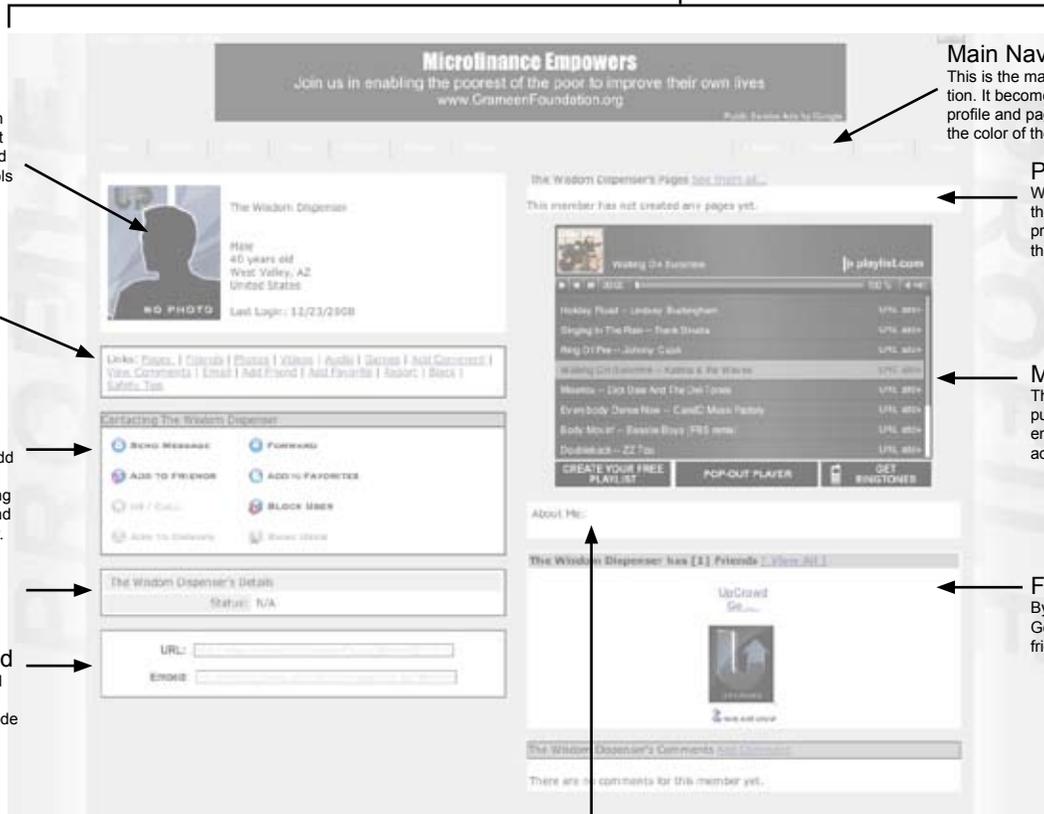

When you add pages, they will appear in your profile as icons that link to that page.

Music Player

This is a default player we put in so your profile isn't empty. You can clear it or add your own.

Friend's List

By default "USociable General" is your first friend.

500px Columns

Your profile is divided into two main columns that are 500px wide. This allows a little margin around the boxes without pushing out the overall 1024 table.

If you are placing images, videos, or other widgets, you might want to consider limiting the width of your embedded objects to 485px so you have a margin around it.

About Me:

You can embed text, images, and code into these content boxes to have them appear on your profile page. If you put nothing in the box, that table will not appear. "About Me" and "Who I'd Like to Meet" appear on the right beneath the music player box and the remaining boxes appear on the left beneath your content table.
